HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
AND
Hoofland's German Tonic.
The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts,) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.
Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.
Those who have no objection to the combination of the bitters, as stated, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.
They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.
The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathizing as closely as it does with the stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:
Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fullness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.
The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigation and inquiries possesses true merit, is skilfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well known remedies—
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Prepared by DR. C. M. JACKSON,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.
These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.
DEBILITY,
Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, &c.
There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.
PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,
And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of these BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.
NOTICE.
It is a well established fact that fully one half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; or, to use their own expression, never feel well. They are languid, devoid of all energy, nervous, and have no appetite.
To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.
WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN,
Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.
Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.
TESTIMONIALS.
HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes:
Philadelphia, March 18, 1767.
"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system.
Yours, truly, GEO. W. WOODWARD."
HON. JAMES THOMPSON,
Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.
Philadelphia, April 23, 1866.
"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON."
FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,
Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.
Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.
Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates St.
FROM REV. E. D. PENDALL,
Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.
I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver.
Yours truly, E. D. PENDALL.

BE A WOMAN.

Oft I've heard a gentle mother,
As the twilight hours began,
Pleading with a son of duty,
Urging him to be a man.

But unto her blue-eyed daughter,
Though with love's word quite as ready,
Points she out the other duty—
"Strive, my dear, to be a lady!"

What's a lady? Is it something
Made of hoops, and silks, and airs,
Used to decorate the parlor,
Like the fancy rings and chairs.

Is it one that wastes on novels
Every feeling that is human?
If 'tis this to be a lady,
'Tis not this to be a WOMAN!

Mother, then, unto your daughter,
Speak of something higher far
Than to be mere fashion's lady—
"Woman" is the brightest star.

If you, in your strong affection,
Urge your son to be a true man,
Urge your daughter no less strongly
To arise and be a WOMAN!

Yes, a woman! brightest model
Of that high and perfect beauty,
Where the mind and soul and body
Blend to work our life's great duty.

Be a woman! naught is higher
On the gilded list of fame;
On the catalogue of virtue
There's no higher, holier name!

Be a woman! on to duty!
Raise the world from all that's low;
Place high in the social heaven
Virtue's fair and radiant bow.

Lend thy influence to each effort
That shall raise our nature human—
Be not fashion's gilded lady—
Be a brave, whole-souled true WOMAN!

"WHAT IS A TARE?"—A father living near Cincinnati, was one evening teaching his little son to recite his Sunday school lesson. It was from the fourteenth chapter of Matthew, where in is related the parable of the malicious individual who went about sowing tares, &c.

"What is a tare?" asked the anxious parent.

Johnny hesitated.

"Tell me, my son, what a tare is."

"You had 'em," said Johnny, casting down his eyes and wriggling his feet.

"Had 'em!" said the astonished parent, opening his eyes rather wide, "why what do you mean, Johnny?"

"When you didn't come home for three days last week," said Johnny, "I heard mother tell Aunt Susan that you was off on a tear."

The Sunday School lesson was then brought to an abrupt close, and Johnny the cunning little rogue, was sent off to bed.

☞ Among the rules posted in the office of a hotel in a Shaker village in New Hampshire is the following:

"Married persons tarrying with us over night are respectfully notified that each sex occupy separate sleeping apartments while they remain."

Some time since a newly-married couple, on a little bridal trip, visited the Shakers. The evening was spent in talk—bed-time came—and the couple were invited to sleep. They passed out of the office up stairs, and there saw two sober-faced Quakers, a "brother" and "sister," each with a candle.

"Man to the left!" said the brother, and into a room he escorted the bridegroom,

"Woman to the right!" as quietly said the sister, and into a separate room the bride was ushered—the newly-made man and wife separating without even a good-night kiss.

☞ "Ln, me!" sighed Mrs. Partington, "here I have been sufferin' the bigamies of death three mortal weeks. Fust I was seized with a bleeding phrenology in the left hemisphere of the brain which was exceeded by a stoppage of the left ventilator of the heart. This gave me an inflammation of the borax, and now I'm sick with the chloroform morbus. There's no blessin' like that of health, particularly when you're sick."

☞ "Ma," said a little girl to her mother, "do the men want to get married as bad as the women do?"

"Why, child, what are you talking about?"

"Why, ma, the women who come here are always talking about getting married; the men never do so."

The terrible infant was sent to bed to rest her powers of observation.

☞ Somebody relates a good story of a couple of boys, who, having been hunting all day, as they drew near home, passed by the old village meeting house. Seeing some object perched upon the steeple one of the boys fired at it, and brought a huge owl tumbling to the ground. His younger companion, shocked at what seemed an act of sacrilege, exclaimed:

"Oh, Bill! you've been and gone and shot a cherubum!"

☞ "Why does the operation of hanging kill a man?" inquired Doctor Whately.

A physiologist replied: "Because inspiration is checked, circulation stopped, and blood suffuses and congests the brain."

"Bosh," replied his grace. "It is because the rope is not long enough to let his feet touch the ground."

☞ "Our mothers—the only faithful tenders who never misplaced a switch," is a toast said to have been offered at a railroad banquet.

☞ An editor asks his subscribers to pay him that he may play the same joke on his creditors.

☞ Rule for editors and ladies—Short articles for this hot weather.

☞ The less a man makes of himself, the more of a man he is.

GENERAL JACOB M. CAMPBELL,

Republican Candidate for Surveyor General.

General Campbell was born in Allegheny township, Somerset county, Pa., on the 20th day of November, 1821; consequently, he will be forty-seven years old next November. At an early age he was apprenticed to the printing business, in Somerset, Pa. After mastering the "art preservative of arts," he emigrated to Pittsburg, when he "worked at case" for some time. He next found his way to New Orleans and into another printing office. Tired of the "composing stick and rule," he tried his hand at steamboating, first as a deck hand, and subsequently as clerk, mate and part owner of a vessel. In 1847, we find him in the iron business, at Brady's Bend. In 1851, he followed the tide of emigration to California, remaining there but a short time. In 1853, we find him in Johnstown, Pa, assisting in the construction of the mammoth Cambria Iron Works, with which establishment he was connected up to the breaking out of the war. In 1861, he was among the first to enroll himself as a volunteer, to defend the flag of his country, and belonged to the first Company that entered Camp Curtin. Upon the arrival of the company in Harrisburg, and the organization of the Third Regiment of Pa. Vols. to which his company was attached, Lieut. Campbell was appointed Quartermaster of the Regiment, which position he filled with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of the officers and men of his regiment, as all those who remain will testify. He was mustered out of service on the 28th of July 1861, and on the 30th of the same month, was commissioned by Gov. Curtin to raise a regiment. The regiment was recruited mainly through Col. Campbell's individual exertions, and upon being organized, was designated the 54th. His regiment was the escort of honor through the city of Washington, to the remains of the lamented Col. Cameron (brother of Hon. Simon Cameron) who fell at the first Bull Run battle. On the 29th of March, 1862, Col. Campbell was ordered to occupy the line of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad from North Mountain Station, fifty-six miles westward to the South Branch of the Potomac. In that position, the executive as well as the military abilities of the Colonel were constantly called into requisition. How well he performed his arduous and multitudinous duties in this trying position, the officers of the B. & O. R. R as well as his superiors in the military service, do not hesitate to declare that but for his energy and sleepless watchfulness, many miles of the road would have been destroyed. On the 25th of December, 1862, he was relieved from duty along the railroad, and on the 6th of March, 1863, was assigned to the command of the 4th Brigade, 1st Division, 8th Army Corps. In 1864, Gen. Sigel took command of the Department of West Virginia, and in a re-organization of the troops, Col. Campbell, at his own request, was returned to the command of his regiment, and took an active part in the battle of New Market, occupying the left of the line. His regiment suffered severely and was the last to leave the field. But for the determined stand made by Col. Campbell, Sigel's army would have been routed and demoralized. In his official report of the battle, he acknowledged the valuable services of Col Campbell in a very handsome and flattering manner. A deserved compliment to a deserving officer. Gen. Sigel also took occasion to thank Col. Campbell in person. "My God! Col. Campbell, I wish I had known you better!" Gen. Sigel exclaimed, rushing to Col. Campbell and grasping his hand with both of his own, after the tumult of battle had subsided. The Colonel and his regiment took a prominent part in the battle of Piedmont, under Gen. Hunter. He was breveted a Brigadier General for bravery and "fitness to command," in this battle, and again assigned to the command of a brigade. He also took an active part in Hunter's celebrated "Lynchburg Raid," his command suffering heavily in the attack upon Lynchburg. When Col. Mulligan fell at Winchester, Gen. Campbell took command of the division, and continued in command until, by severe losses in killed and wounded, it was consolidated into a brigade, which he afterwards commanded. He also participated in the engagements in the Shenandoah, under the gallant Phil. Sheridan, winning other and now laurels while with that intrepid chieftain.

Gen. Campbell was mustered out of the service in the fall of 1864, having been in the army almost three years and a half. He was never absent from his command, except three weeks, sitting as a member of a Court of Inquiry at Wheeling, Va., and had but two "leaves of absence," during his whole period of service, one for ten and the other for twenty days.

The political record of Gen. Campbell will also bear examination. Brought up a Jackson Democrat, he voted for Polk and Dallas in 1844, but in 1848, seeing the determined encroachments of the slavery propagandists, he voted for the free soil candidates, Van Buren and Adams, and in 1852, again voted for the free soil nominees, Hale and Julian; and in 1856, was the delegate from Cambria county to the Fremont Convention. In 1859, the Republicans of Cambria county presented him to their district conference as their choice for the Senatorial nomination, and three years ago he was unanimously selected again as the choice of the Union party of Cambria, for State Senator, but failed to receive the nomination from the district conference upon either occasion, not however from want of appreciation of his worth and services as a citizen and as a brave and meritorious soldier.

On the 17th of August 1865, Gen. Campbell was nominated for Surveyor General by the Republican party, and in October of the same year, was elected over Col. Linton, his competitor, by a large majority. For over two years he has administered the duties of his office with recognized ability and to the satisfaction of all parties; and has brought up a large amount of unfinished and intricate business. In March last, he was unanimously renominated by the Republican State Convention, for the office he now so ably and satisfactorily fills. A unanimous re-nomination from a State Convention of either party, is no small compliment to any man, and no one within our recollection except Gen. Campbell and his colleague on the State ticket ever before received such a marked endorsement.

Such in brief, is a hurried sketch of the life and services of one of Pennsylvania's noblest sons. He is first found a "printer's devil," a "jour," a "deck hand" on a steamboat, a "clerk," "mate" and "part owner of a vessel." He is next found in the iron business, then in California, and finally in the gigantic enterprise of the celebrated Cambria Iron Mills, where his great experience added largely to the success of that stupendous undertaking. At the breaking out of the war, he was Lieutenant of a militia company, entered the army and was appointed a Quartermaster, then a Colonel, and after a brilliant campaign of three long, weary years, he was honored with a Brevet Brigadier General's Commission, a position long and doubly earned in command of a brigade and division, and by gallantry in the field. Thus, it will be seen, that Gen. Campbell comes from the working class, and is emphatically a working man.

His social characteristics never fail to create the warmest friendships and a lasting impression. He is a shrewd business man and a useful citizen—a man endowed with strong common sense, and rarely fails in his judgment of men and measures—is well read, and familiarly acquainted with all the internal workings of the great machinery of our government. Among the ablest articles on the subject of our National finances, was one from his pen, written during the early part of last winter. He is a genial companion, a clever, whole-souled, honest man, strictly temperate in his habits, and that he will be re-elected by an increased majority, is already beyond a peradventure.

THE POWER OF MUSIC.—How can we resist the magnetism of sweet and thrilling music! When our soul is pensive or we are in depressed spirits, how gentle and soothing is its solace! Our thoughts wander away to the troubled memories of departed joys and present sorrows. When grief and sorrow overwhelm us, music's marvelous charm releases the heavy burden from our heart. Low, soft sounds listlessly ripple in the air, and swell harmoniously beneath the touch of dreamy fingers. Like the nightingale's mournful, plaintive lay, vibrates the quivering emotions produced by music. Higher and grander echoes the strain, until the listener's soul seems borne along with them on fantastic pinions. We imagine ourselves to be soaring in a dreamland, in our bright and tranquil days. Apollo raised the walls of the City of Troy with his harp. Orpheus enchanted the whole creation with his music. Beethoven, that illustrious musician, from childhood made music his constant companion. His great talent for music was early cultivated. He indulged his wildest passion and greatest hopes in it. Not ambition or riches crowned his future, but sweet visions would haunt his dreams, and on them would he build his fancy. He greatly astonished the people by his extempore performances. The music of Beethoven was spirited and inspiriting; that of Mozart was melancholy. Mozart was possessed of a powerful mind and rich imagination. Strauss, Meyerbeer, and Weber were also great and distinguished musicians. Their music allayed fury and passion. In that, the people recognized with a thrill the genius which, indeed, seemed to be beyond mortal. Let a hymn, solemn and grand, be chanted to Him, the Bestower of this gift. Let angels meet us, harps sounding, when we return to the land of eternity, and guide us where happiness and contentment will be our lot.

ADVANTAGE OF YEARS.—You are getting into years. Yes, but the years are getting into you—the ripe, rich years, the genial, mellow years, the lusty, luscious years. One by one the crudities of your youth are falling off from you, the vanity, the egotism, the insulation, the bewilderment, the uncertainty. Nearer and nearer you are approaching yourself. You are consolidating your forces. You are becoming master of your situation. On the ruins of shattered plans you find your vantage ground. Your broken hopes, your thwarted purposes, your defeated aspirations, become a staff of strength by which you mount to sublimer heights. With self possession and self-command of all things, the title deed of creation, forfeited, is reclaimed. The king has come to his own again. Earth and sea and sky pour out their largess of love. All the crowds pass down to lay its treasure at your feet.—Ik. Marvel.

The Mytery of Editing.

The cares and perplexities of an editor's life are likely to be better understood and appreciated in time to come, than they have been in the past.—Henry Ward Beecher, one of the most eminent preachers and writers of the age, has been giving the position a little attention, and the following is his opinion of the situation. We can assure every reader that the picture is underdrawn rather than overdrawn:

"The world at large do not understand the mysteries of a newspaper; and as in a watch the hands that are seen are but passive instruments of the springs, which are never seen, so in a newspaper the most worthy causes of its prosperity are least observed or known. Who suspects the benefit which the paper derives from the enterprize, the vigilance, and the watchful fidelity of the publisher? Who pauses to think how much of the pleasure of reading is derived from the skill and care of the printer? We feel the blemishes of printing if they exist, but seldom observe the excellences.

We eat a hearty dinner, but do not think of the farmer that raises the material thereof, or the cook that prepares them with infinite pains and skill. But a cook of vegetables, meat, pastry, and infinite bon-bons has a paradisaical office in comparison with an editor? Before him pass all the exchange newspapers. He is to know all their contents, to mark for other eyes the matter that requires attention. His scissors are to be alert, and clip with incessant industry all the little items that together form so large an interest in the news department.—He passes in review each week every State in the Union through the newspaper lens. He looks across the ocean and sees strange lands, and, following the sun, he searches all around the world for material. It will require but one second for the reader to take in what two hours' search produced. By him are read the manuscripts that swarm the office like flies in July. It is his hand that condenses a whole page into a line. It is his discreet sternness that restricts sentimental obituaries; that gives poets a twig on which to sit and sing their first lays.

And the power behind the throne in newspapers, as in higher places, is sometimes important as the throne itself. Correspondents, occasional or regular, stand in awe at the silent power which has the last glance at an article, and may send it forth in glory or humility. And, in short, as the health of the body depends upon a good digestion, so the health of a newspaper depends upon that vigorous digestion which goes on by means of the Editor.

Ought they not to be honored? And since little fame attends them, they should at least have their creature comforts multiplied. From that dark and dismal den residence they are at length translated!

PUMP WATER AND LOVE.—Dr. E. O. Guerrant, a gallant officer, who served in the Confederate army as Adjutant General, in Western Virginia, was married on the 12th ult., to Miss M. J. Duvalt, of Leesburg, Tennessee.—The Doctor and his fair bride are now stopping at the Louisville Hotel, being en route to their future home in Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. In connection with this marriage a comrade in arms of the doctor relates the following pleasing little romance:

"In the midst of a terrific battle near Leesburg, in which the shot and shell were flying through the air like a hail storm, the doctor and Captain J., his companion, rode up to a house on the roadside and called for a drink of water, being almost famished with thirst. A charming young lady furnished the cooling beverage from a pump in the yard, and with one of her sweetest smiles, spoke a few words of good cheer to the war-worn soldiers, battling in the cause of the South.

It was not until the following day that Captain J. ascertained that his friend, the doctor, had been seriously wounded in the region of the heart.—That smiling face, and those cheering words spoken by the lovely maiden who gave them the drink of water, sent a dart from Cupid's bow, more potent than a five years' courtship, into the tender loin of the doctor's affections. He told Captain J. that if he lived "until the war was over," he would go back to that house by the roadside and get another drink of water, even at the cost of entering the ranks of the "Benedicts."

It is unnecessary to add that he kept his word. Not satisfied with the Good Templar's drink, however, he robbed Tennessee of one of her most fascinating and accomplished daughters, who is now his wife, as above intimated."

☞ Poor paper and pale ink make a sorry-looking letter, and one very difficult to read. But worse than this is a long letter written with a poor lead pencil. There may be circumstances where it is necessary to tear out the blank fly-leaf of a book and use it instead of a neat letter sheet. But good stationery is now too plentiful for any one to insult a correspondent by writing him on a dirty, crumpled bit of waste paper. Use clean white paper, bright black or dark brown ink—be brief when writing on business—dwell as long as you like when writing love letters—and rather than leave your correspondent to guess what you mean read over your letter and carefully revise as if for publication. Then add your address in full, giving post office, county, and State. If to be answered, inclose stamp with which to pay return postage—otherwise it may fail to get attention. Then write the address of him you would reach, plainly, fully, and it will—accidents excepted, go straight to the person addressed.

THE GLOBE FOR THE CAMPAIGN

We propose to send the Globe to campaign subscribers, to the 15th of November, at the following rates:

To single subscribers, 75cts. per copy.
To clubs of 5 and less than 10, 50cts. " "
To clubs of 10 and less than 20, 40cts. " "
To clubs of 20 and upwards, 35cts. " "

The above rates will not cover expenses, but we are willing to contribute something that every voter in the county may have an opportunity to read the political news during the campaign. Our friends we hope will make an effort to get up clubs. Subscriptions invariably in advance.

A WORD TO SOBER MEN.—The time has come for appeals to the reason and not the passion of men, and it is fit that in the beginning of the campaign before us that something should be said in reference to the mode of conducting it. In former years, and more especially during the past six years, when the pulse of the nation was agitated, from centre to circumference, and the people lived on excitement, we were accustomed to hear passionate harangues, abusive epithets and multiplied threats of vengeance from the speakers and through the press of both parties—each indeed vieing with each other in the use of terms that left the impression that the speaker was familiarly acquainted with bar-room conversation, if he was not himself a tippler. Men left political gatherings and read political papers, filled with disgust for the former and holding in contempt the latter. They saw there was nothing to be accomplished by such a course, and many have we heard denounce politics for this reason, and vowing they would never attend another election. And indeed we could not blame them for their resolve; for what inducement is it to a sober-thinking man to attend a meeting where he will hear nothing but abuse, or read journals wherein there is nothing but hard names and general vituperation. He cannot lend his assistance to anything which encourages such folly; and it is unreasonable to suppose a thinking man, who studies politics because he desires to get posted upon the proper issues, and who votes on the side that he thinks is best for the country, would hold in high estimation one who makes use of politics to show his command of calumny and slang. Candid men take pleasure in listening to a speaker who argues his position; but one who indulges in epithets is a dead weight to any party and had better stay at home. We hope to hear no speaker who cannot talk reasonably upon the issues in the present campaign. Nor is it necessary, in our opinion, to abuse the candidates. Their record as public men, and not as private individuals, as it is revealed through reliable sources, is all that is necessary to show the people what reliance could be placed in them as rulers or office-holders. It is a useless waste of ammunition to berate candidates for public positions for any private misfortune or any private individual error. As it has been, a candidate no matter how gentlemanly, is made a blackguard, and no matter how sensible, he is made a fool. More honesty and truth is needed in politics as in every thing else, and if there is to be any reform in this direction we hope to see it displayed now. Neither party will lose anything by candidness and truth, but they will each be the losers if they choose speakers for the stump who talk such "stuff" as will insult the intelligence and manliness of their hearers, or encourage newspapers which are filled with the "claptrap" that sensible men will not believe.

THE BLOATED BONDHOLDERS.—The Sub-Treasury in Wall street is now engaged in paying off the July gold interest on the five-twenty bonds, and the New York Times thinks the lines of men and women who may be seen daily waiting for their interest forms an instructive spectacle for the repudiating Pendletonians. They will observe how small a proportion of the bondholders, after all, look any ways bloated, and how few of them drive after their interest in gorgeous carriages and how very few need a cart to convey their gold to their homes. They will observe what a very large number of them have but one or two coupons from bonds of a small denomination—say from $500 bonds or $1,000 bonds, and they will discover how many of them receive from $60 to $120 as their half yearly income from their small investments. They will notice how plainly attired most of them are, and how promptly they depart after getting the small sums due to attend to the pressing duties of life. If the repudiating Pendletonian should take the trouble to get acquainted with a few of them, he would probably find that they happened to be small traders, or mechanics, or clerks, or workingmen, or professional people, who had invested their savings in the Government funds at a time when the country was in pressing need of their assistance. After such a view of the bloated bondholders, and such an idea of the people who hold the greater part of the National securities, the Pendletonian Democrats would perhaps come to wiser and honester conclusions.

☞Gen. Frank Blair, the Democratic nominee for Vice President said in the New York ratification meeting:

"What civilized people upon earth would refuse to associate with themselves in all the rights and dignity of their country such men as Lee and Johnston? [Cheers and shouts of "No one, no one."] What civilized country upon the earth would fail to do honor to those who, though fighting for an erroneous cause, yet distinguished themselves by gallantry never surpassed (immense cheers) in that contest for which they are sought to be disfranchised and exiled from their homes,—in that contest in which they have proved themselves worthy to be our peers. [Loud applause."]

It is this thing of palavering the Southern leaders that gives tone to the belief that with the Democratic party once in power all the rebels, from Jeff. Davis down to the humble private, would be fully recognized in all their rights and permitted to rule. It is this thing of palavering the rebel soldiers by calling them "the peers" of Union soldiers that shows just where the preference of the Democrats lies, and with that party again in power, the rebel soldiers would be given the offices and the Union boys would have to take a back seat.

☞Grant, if he is elected, say the Democrats, will be a tool of the Radicals. Was Grant a "tool" of anybody when he told the rebel Gen. Buckner, "I propose to move immediately upon your works," or when he demanded an "unconditional surrender" of the rebel General Pemberton, or when in the Virginia campaign he said: "I propose to fight it out on this line, if it takes all summer," or when he told the rebel General Lee, "I propose to receive the surrender of the army of Northern Virginia upon the following terms." Grant proposed his own terms, fought his own battles, and won his own victories, and it is the self-same Grant who will lead the Republican forces on to victory at the ballot box next November.

☞Andy Johnson has not yet endorsed the nomination of Seymour and Blair. He has not yet been able to see where the Democratic organization has endorsed his fight with Congress. He has done the heavy work for the Democracy for three years past, but he has not been willing to go far enough to satisfy the demands of the leaders of the party, and was rejected as their candidate.

On the same day that the battle of Gettysburg was being fought, Horatio Seymour was fomenting a riot in the city of New York. The following are his words on that occasion:—"Do you not create revolution when you say that your persons may be rightfully seized, your property confiscated, your homes entered? Are you not exposing yourselves, your own interests, to as great a peril as that which you threaten us? Remember this: that the bloody and revolutionary doctrine of public necessity can be proclaimed by a mob as well as by a Government." (Applause.)

The N. Y. Tribune truly says:—Grant and Colfax will be elected, but only by hard and steady work. If Republican effort should henceforth be relaxed, under the presumption that it was needless, we should be badly beaten. Fraudulent votes alone would beat Grant, as they beat Henry Clay in '44. Systematic preparation, persistent vigilance, can alone preserve the ballot-boxes from wholesale pollution.

Horatio Seymour, Democratic candidate for President, during the war used these words: If it is true that slavery must be abolished to save this Union, then the people of the South should be allowed to withdraw themselves from the Government which cannot give them the protection guaranteed by its terms.

Seymour's declaration before the New York Convention that he could not accept the nomination for the Presidency, because it would put his party and the country in peril, may be accepted as a virtual admission of his defeat at the coming election.

Political Chip Basket.

Wade Hampton, of South Carolina, one of the Confederate Generals, and a delegate to the Democratic Convention at New York, at a very recent anniversary of Lee's college asserted that "The course for which Jackson (Stonewall) and Stuart fell cannot be in vain; but, in some form will yet triumph."

Democrats can have nothing more to say about the Freedmen's Bureau or the Military Governments of the South, for Congress has passed a bill providing for the discontinuance of the former, and the latter are being removed as fast as the Southern States comply with the reconstruction acts.

The nomination of Seymour and Blair is received with rejoicing by the rebels of the South. They know where Seymour's sympathies were during the war, and they also know where Blair now stands when he says in a recent letter that the President elect should declare all the reconstruction acts null and void.

An examination of official records show that General Grant's losses incurred in his Virginia campaign, were smaller than those of his predecessors. Then there is this difference—Grant wound up the rebellion, and the others helped to do so.

Last fall when discussing the relative merits of Grant and Sherman, Frank Blair said: "Grant knows more than Sherman and all the rest banged into one." Democrats should now have nothing more to say about Grant's incapacity.

Mr. Horatio Seymour told the Democratic Convention that if he accepted the nomination for President, he would be a dishonored and defeated man.—November next will show him to be a true prophet.

The standing witticism of President Johnson, in reply to the question:—"How do the Democratic nominations take?" is that "they take like the small pox, and will be hard to get rid of."

"Let us have peace," says General Grant. "Disperse the State Governments," says General Blair. Between two such Generals whom will you prefer—the one for peace, or the one for war.

The Democrats claim 100,000 majority for Seymour in New York, in November next. Can they explain then why he was beaten by Gov. Fenton in 1864 by 8,293 votes?

Democrats will please remember that Frank P. Blair, their candidate for Vice President, at one time not only advocated political, but social equality for the negro.

Frank Blair, the Democratic candidate for Vice President, threatens to undo the Reconstruction acts of the past three years, and thus keep the country in turmoil four years longer.

There is no use in trying to disguise the fact that the people are for the hero of Vicksburg, Fort Donelson and Richmond—General U. S. Grant.

Woodward pledged this State for Seymour and Blair by 20,000 majority. Yes, with coffee colored naturalization dips.

SEYMOUR AND THE REBEL COMMISSIONERS.

AN IMPORTANT REVELATION.

From the Ohio State Journal July 11.

We publish to-day, the affidavit of Captain James Sidney Hill, to which allusion has heretofore been made by us. The publication of this important affidavit has been purposely delayed with the hope and expectation that Horatio Seymour would be nominated for the Presidency by the Convention at New York.

It will be remembered that when reference was first made to the existence of this testimony Gov. Seymour exhibited ungovernable rage, and not only took occasion to vouch for his own innocence, but to attack, with savage emphasis, all officers and agents of the government whom he suspected of having been instrumental in making known to the State Department the nature of his relations with the rebel Commissioners in Canada.

The writer, who, in 1864, was Consul of the United States in New Brunswick, having been appointed to that office by President Lincoln in September, '61, had occasion to transmit to the Secretary of State information concerning the movements of the rebel commissioners, Clement C. Clay, and Jas. P. Holcombe, and it especially became his duty to make known to the Government whatever facts were known in the British Provices concerning the nature of the "mission" of those notorious enemies of the United States. Application will be made to the State Department for copies of the full correspondence on the subject, which, when obtained, will be made public.

The important fact was then well known that the prime purpose that the Davis Government had in sending Commissioners to Canada, was to array the State of New York in hostility to the Federal Government. Captain Hill's testimony establishes beyond question the fact that such was the confidence reposed in Horatio Seymour, then Governor of New York, that the rebel chiefs did not hesitate to address him on a subject which they knew was dear to his heart—the triumph of the Confederacy, and opened official correspondence with him, as with a tried and trusted agent of their own.

Clement C. Clay, who organized the raiding and piratical expeditions from Canada into the United States, expressed his entire willingness to visit Ogdensburg, New York, knowing that Seymour would give him safe passport through the "Sovereign State."—It will be proved hereafter that Clay sent dispatches to and received dispatches from Albany while at Halifax, Quebec and Montreal; that messages were passing between the rebel commissioners and the rebel sympathizing Governor, for a period of almost two months; and we believe also that the exact nature of these communications will, ere long, be fully made known.—So much by way of explanation to-day. We shall pursue this subject until the treachery and treason of Horatio Seymour, the worst and wiliest enemy of the Republic, are laid bare. We propose to see the thing through; and shall fight it out on this line.

The following is an exact copy of the original affidavit now on file in the State Department of the United States Government:

"Affidavit of Capt. Jas Sidney Hill."

CONSULATE OF THE UNITED STATES, St. John, New Brunswick.

On this second day of June, '64, personally appeared before me, J. Q. Howard, United States Consul at St. John, New Brunswick, James Sidney Hill, who solemnly made oath to the following facts:

"I am now about twenty-eight years of age; I was born in Parish of St. Bernard, Louisiana; I am the son of Jerome Philip Hill, of New Orleans, who has always been a devoted Union man. I was educated as a civil engineer at West Point, Virginia.

"In the year 1861, in the month of April, I was carried away by the intense excitement that prevailed, and entered the rebel service as captain of a company of volunteers; I served at the first battle of Manassas, at the battles of Richmond, at the time of M'Clellan's advance, and also took part in the battle of Antietam; was wounded in the seven days' fight near Richmond; was sent to Savannah as engineer on the staff of Gen. G. W. Smith, and obtained leave of absence to go to Wilmington; from Wilmington I ran the blockade on the steamer Banshee to Nassau; my object was to get out of the rebel service and take the oath of allegiance; from Nassau I went to Havana, and there took the oath of allegiance under Mr. Lincoln's amnesty proclamation; from Havana I went to St. Thomas with a friend, who was in a dying condition; thence to St. Johns, Porto Rico; I could not get a vessel at Porto Rico for New Orleans, but obtained passage to Halifax, Nova Scotia, where I expected more readily to get a vessel.

I had been in Halifax about four days, when happening to be at the wharf when the mail steamer Alpha arrived from Bermuda, I was accosted at the landing by the Hon. C. C. Clay, of Alabama, whom I accompanied to the Waverly Hotel. Colonel Duncan, of Louisville, Kentucky, was in company with us. Mr. Clay said he was out on a little business for the Government and was on his way to Canada; said that he had great confidence in me. A day or two after this conversation, I came to St. John, New Brunswick, hoping to get to New Orleans by the way of Portland; and on the first day of June, I again met Mr. Clay at the steamboat landing. He said he wanted me to come as soon as I could to the Waverly Hotel to see him. About eight o'clock he sent a boy to the Lawrence Hotel for me, and I went up to the Waverly, to Mr. Clay's private room.

"He said, 'Look here, captain, I want you to go to Canada; I shall very probably go to Ogdensburg, and, as I am not at all well, I need some company; I would have gone to Portland, but I am afraid some one would recognize me.' He proposed to take a walk, and, after our return, he requested me to come up to the hotel early in the morning (this morning). He sent for me at half-past seven. I went directly up. He took me to his private room and again urged me to go with him.

"He took from a pocket in the back of his inside coat a package containing four or five letters or dispatches; I had one of these documents in my hand; it was addressed 'To his Excellency, Horatio Seymour, Governor of the State of New York;' another was addressed to 'Hon. Fernando Wood, New York.' On each of these envelopes was printed, 'Department of State, Richmond, Confederate States of America,' and on the envelope was written a name which I do not remember, but have no doubt it was the name of the present Secretary of State. Said Mr. Clay, I was sent on a mission to deliver these letters to Governor Seymour, but I wish they had chosen somebody else. Said he, 'I shall stop in Montreal a few days, and then shall probably go to Ogdensburg;' he said 'I shall see Governor Seymour,' but did not say directly that he would see him at Ogdensburg, If my (affiant's) letters (which I was expecting from New Orleans) came, he would like very much to meet me at Quebec or Montreal. I inferred from Mr. Clay's conversation that he wanted me to convey his dispatches to Gov. Seymour. My intimacy with Mr. Clay arose from the fact that his son, Robert Clay, was first lieutenant in my company, Thirteenth Regiment Louisiana Volunteers, Col. York's command, Gen. Pickett's division, Longstreet's corps.

I parted with him saying that I would meet him in Canada, if possible.

"JAMES SIDNEY HILL,

"Sworn to before me by said James [SEAL.] Sidney Hill, and subscribed in my presence this 2d day of June, 1864.

"J. Q. HOWARD,
"United States Consul."

Where Rests the Responsibility?

From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

"I thank God that the strife of arms has ceased, and once more in the great conventions of our party we call through the whole roll of States, and find men to answer to each."—Seymour's Speech.

Governor Seymour thanks God that all of the States are once more represented in a National Convention. But to whom is this gratifying result due? Is it the Democratic party which in 1864 declared in the Chicago Convention, over which this same Governor Seymour presided, that the war was "a failure," and should be stopped? The country was at that time enshrouded in gloom, and the Rebel prospects were brightening. Then it was that the Democratic party solemnly declared that no further efforts should be made to overcome them. In so many words it affirmed that the prosecution of the war had been of no avail, and that the time had come to let the insurgents go in peace and establish a separate Government of their own.

The great and patriotic Republican organization, however, which had conducted the war to that point, never thought of hesitating or faltering. On the contrary, it pushed forward with renewed zeal and determination, and as a result Wade Hampton, William Preston, Napoleon Forrest, C. C. Langdon, and other Southern politicians are gathered to-day in the city of New York to nominate a candidate for the whole United States, instead of assembling at Richmond, Charleston, or Montgomery to designate Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, or John C. Breckinridge as President of a Southern Confederacy. To the Republican party, and that party alone, is due the fact that the Tammany Convention to-day embraces delegates from below Mason and Dixon's line.

Governor Seymour's speech, which is surcharged with passion and anger as no other address of his ever was, dwells much on the vast debt, depreciated currency, and heavy taxes of the country. But the party which he to-day represents brought all of these ills upon the country. When the Southern States threatened to secede if Abraham Lincoln was chosen President, the Democratic party of the North encouraged their threats and menaces. An ex-Democratic President assured them that he, along with others, would rush to their rescue were any force attempted. Other Democratic leaders, at Moriden, Connecticut, and elsewhere, declared that a Northern army would have to march over their dead bodies before reaching Dixie. Democratic sheets, here in the metropolis, promised a hundred thousand defenders to the South from New York alone in the event of war. And one of them had a Rebel flag prepared to unfurl to the breeze opposite the way from where we are now writing.

Encouraged by such "manifestations" the Southern leaders inaugurated secession. A Democratic President, instead of crushing the initiatory movements, looked calmly on and declared that he had no power or authority to save the republic from going to pieces. While Floyd, as Secretary of War, stealthily conveyed war material from the Northern to the Southern arsenals, the other members of the Democratic Cabinet as stealthily and secretly plotted against the nation's life.

Then it was that our national burdens, over which Governor Seymour fairly raves and foams, began. The Democratic party had encouraged the fiery Southerner to assail the Government, and the Republican party hastened to its defense, calling upon the country for men and money. As the war continued, the Democratic party, as such, vigorously opposed it, continuing to give moral as well as material support to the insurgents, and discouraging enlistments.

By thus keeping up a constant fire from the rear on the Government, it compelled still greater outlays of men and material, and swelled the public debt. State and local taxes are now being paid all over the country because the Democratic party prevented volunteering, encouraged "skedaddling," and hence necessitated the payment of heavy bounties. We, here in New York, are paying taxes to-day for property destroyed by Governor Seymour's "friends," when in the Summer of 1863 they rioted at will through our streets, and under the belief that they had his encouragement and sanction, plundered public and private dwellings, and shot down unoffending men, women and children. It is because of such deeds, because the Democratic party, as such, continued disloyal until the end of the conflict, that we are saddled with national, State and local burdens. Had the Democratic party been loyal to the country, there would have been no rebellion, no secession, and no national debt. Had the Democratic party become loyal on the outbreak of the rebellion, that rebellion would have been overcome years earlier, and our national burdens would have been correspondingly less.

Huntingdon Academy.

On Tuesday, the 14th day of July inst, the Spring session of this Institution closed. It was my fortune to be present by invitation, and bear the closing exercises. The Principal, the Rev. J. Hewitt, is a gentleman, and a ripe scholar, and fully competent to teach all the branches of a classical education. It was highly gratifying to the parents and all present, to witness the creditable manner in which the pupils all acquitted themselves.

It was soon manifest that a little pleasant rivalry and laudable ambition existed among the scholars in consequence of two beautiful prizes to be awarded. The first a very convenient writing desk and gold pen worth seventeen dollars, for the best original essay on "Labor and Independence." The other a very beautiful gold breast pin or medal appropriately engraved, worth some eight dollars, for the fewest number of bad marks for irregular attendance. The original compositions, signed by fictitious names were submitted to the judgment of a committee composed of the following highly competent persons: Rev. Mr. Zahnizer, Rev. Mr. Milliken, Mrs. Laws, S. T. Brown, Esq., and Mr. A. J. Riley, and the first prize awarded to Master William Taylor, son of Judge Taylor. The second prize was awarded by the Principal to Miss Martha, a very interesting daughter of Mr R. G. Morrison. Owing to the length of time consumed by the scholars in reading original essays, delivering speeches from memory, and the excessive heat, an examination on several of the branches taught was abandoned.

Can any one assign a reason why Huntingdon, with all her wealth and intelligence has heretofore paid so little attention to the support of schools, at home, for the higher branches of a good education? Fathers of Huntingdon, men of wealth and influence, to you the reflection is humiliating. Beautifully situated in a romantic mountainous region, possessing a climate as fine and healthful as any in the world, you have witnessed institutions of learning spring up all around you at railroad speed, while you have gone lumbering on in the deeply worn ruts of the old Conestoga wagon. You have made wealth your strong city, and will be fortunate indeed if your children rise up and call you blessed. It is hoped that a new era has now dawned and that this institution will be well patronized. Mr. Hewitt will commence a fall session in September next. W.

The Democratic Ratification Meeting.

The "untorrified" had a ratification meeting in front of their Club Room on Saturday night last, at which speeches were made by Mr. Uttley of Lewistown, General Miller of Harrisburg, and R. M. Speer, Esq., of this place. The band was in attendance, and about two hundred hearers, including perhaps one half Republicans. It was a respectable meeting—orderly, and adjourned without creating any unusual excitement. If we are to believe the speakers, their candidates are just the men their party wanted. If the Democrats are satisfied, Republicans certainly should be. The speakers gave us to understand that the fight was to be conducted on their part with an earnestness not before equalled, and Seymour and Blair are to be elected beyond a doubt; if Republicans stay at home and leave the voting to be done by the "unterrified."

Accident on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Edward H. Williams, General Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, telegraphed from Altoona last Sunday, the following particulars of an accident to the emigrant train:

"An accident occurred to the Emigrant train west to-day near Newton Hamilton Station. Four cars were thrown from the track, one of which was upset. A number of the occupants were more or less bruised. One woman had her wrist fractured, and another her collar-bone. Medical attendance was promptly provided, and the injured were enabled to proceed on their journey without material delay. The cause of the accident is not yet definitely ascertained."

Festival.

The Festival at the Castilian Garden last Thursday evening, for the benefit of the Baptist church of Huntingdon, was liberally patronized by the public, as we understand there were about $169 cleared. Besides the refreshments that were served, the voting departments of the entertainment contributed somewhat to the interest manifested. We present below the numbers of votes for the different articles:

For the silver mounted ebony cane, to be given to the minister, the votes stood; For Rev J. W. Plannet, 270; Rev. J. J. Kerr, 45; Rev. G. W. Zahniser, 25; Rev. R. E. Wilson, 10. Total 350.

For the Gavel there was an exciting contest between the Grand Army of the Republic and the Democratic Club, the vote standing G. A. R. 1765; Dem. Club, 950; I. O. of G. T. 15.

For the Fan the votes stood: Miss Annie Terry, 415; Miss Jennie Corbin, 275; scattering 175.

For the Masonic apron Robt. King 25; Graffus Miller 20; scattering 25; and for the Sash, Juniata Lodge No. 116, I. O. of O. F., received 85.

The total receipts from the voting departments were $93.60.

The total receipts were $297 02, and the total expenses $127 53; leaving a net profit of $169 49.

The committee of arrangements in behalf of the Church, and others interested in getting up the Festival, would avail themselves of the opportunity of expressing their thanks to the citizens of this town and vicinity, for their liberal patronage, and also to Col. Summers the gentlemanly proprietor of Castilian Garden, and his lady for the use of the garden without charge; for their kindness and interest in the enprize; and for the invaluable aid rendered by them on the occasion, without which the entertainment could not have been made what it should be. This public expression is deemed by the committee simply as an act of justice and it is hoped will be received as a slight token of their lasting gratitude and esteem.

Juniata Lodge, No. 117, I. O. of O. F., Huntingdon, Pa., July 17, 1868.

"The silver cord is loosed and the golden bowl is broken at the fountain."

In the glory and ripeness of manhood our esteemed brother JOHN M. CUNNINGHAM has been summoned from our earthly lodge, to that supreme lodge "not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

From the din and tumult and heat of the battle of life, he has gone over the river and rests on the green pastures by the still waters of our Father's Kingdom, and from his vacant place comes a silent and impressive warning, that we

"So live that when our summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan that moves
To the pale realms of shade, where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death."

We go, like those who wrap the drapery of their couch About them and lie down to pleasant dreams."

We cannot break the barriers round the dark domain of death or bring our brother thence, but we can strive to emulate his virtues and cherish the sublime principles of the fraternity he loved, therefore, as a memorial of our sorrow be it

Resolved, That in our bereavement we bow in humble submission to "the will of Him who doeth all things well," and while we deeply mourn the irreparable loss of a true and tried brother we are consoled in the immortal hope that he has gone from the brief and uncertain friendship of earth to "that Friend who sticketh closer than a brother," in Heaven.

Resolved, That the family and relations of the deceased have our sincere sympathy and condolence in this mournful dispensation of Providence, which has shrouded their hearts and home in gloom.

Resolved, That our hall be draped in mourning for thirty days, and that these proceedings be transmitted to the family of our departed brother and published in the papers of the borough.

In the School Room.

This is the name of a new work, edited by John S. Hart, L. L. D., principal of the New Jersey State Normal School, and published by Eldredge & Bro., 17 and 19 South Sixth Streets, Philadelphia. Price $1.25. It is a work of thirty chapters, the first being "What is Teaching?" and the last "What is Education?" Each chapter contains the thoughts which have been suggested to the writer in the school room itself, and the manner in which he communicates them to the reader will be found entertaining and edifying. Every man or woman engaged in Teaching, whether in the day school or in the sabbath school, should give this invaluable work a careful study.

New Banking Firm.

We call attention to the advertisement of the new firm of John Bare & Co., Bankers, in this place. The gentlemen of the firm are men of means, and are individually liable for all deposits. They are successful business men, which of itself is always considered the strongest recommendation for public favor. The House has been doing a successful business for nearly two years and we have no doubt the new firm will be liberally favored by business men. See advertisement.

A Child Bitten by a Rat.

On Thursday evening last a large rat entered a room wherein Mrs. H. G. Fisher's youngest child was sleeping, and commenced an assault upon its person, and bit its hand in several places. The family were at the Festival, and knew nothing of it until they returned. The rat was seen a day or two afterwards sitting on the steps near the door of the room, and Mr. F. has set a trap to catch the cannibal.

The Best Thing Yet.

The Medical Profession, after having thoroughly tested Speer's wines, have introduced them into their practice, on account of their purity. His "Standard Wine Bitters" are equally as pure, and only need a trial to recommend them.

THE BREVITY OF LIFE

"'Tis not for man to trifle, life is brief,
Our age is but the falling of a leaf.
We have no time to sport away the hours,
All must be earnest in a world like ours.
Not many lives, but one have we,
How sacred should that one be."

And still how many fritter away their lives unable to fill any useful purpose, because some lingering disease unfits them for it, and they neglect or refuse to use the remedies within their reach God in his wonderful arrangement of nature has provided an antidote for all the ills that human flesh is heir to, and by the aid of science, the medicinal virtues of certain herbs, roots and barks have been combined, and the result is now known all over the civilized world as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It thoroughly purifies the blood, invigorates the nervous fibres, elevates the standard of all the vital forces, and sustains a most healthful tone of the entire human organization. The Great Issues.

From the New York Times.

The action of the Democracy has served one useful purpose. It has more distinctly defined the grounds which divide the parties, and has left no room for controversy as to the issues involved in the contest between Grant and Seymour.

Whether the mode and form of reconstruction are the best that might have been devised, is less a question for consideration than whether what has been done shall be maintained or reversed. We have got beyond the stage at which criticism of the details of measures, or even their principles, might have been advantageously discussed. The method is now obscured by the result. A process in its nature rough has at least advanced us far toward the complete restoration of the South to the Union. Several of the States are once more represented in Congress, and others will be before the adjournment. Nearly the whole South is within sight of the goal which marks the cessation of military rule, and the re-establishment of local self government.

The question at issue is, whether what has been done shall continue in operation, with a certainty that it will gradually render pacification complete; or whether it shall be violently overthrown, rights that have been conferred taken away, guarantees that have been provided, destroyed, and the confusion and peril incident to a vital struggle renewed. It is a question, on one hand, of peace, with ample opportunities of adapting the new governments to local circumstances and wants, and, on the other, of strife and bloodshed, with race arrayed against race, and the old spirit of the rebellion in direct hostility to the national authority. By upholding what Congress has done, and perfecting the application of the principles it has affirmed, and the measures it has developed, we have the assurance that a brief period will obliterate remaining causes of difficulty, and lay the foundation of an era of vast industrial progress and prosperity. By breaking down, or by attempting to break down, the work of reconstruction, a struggle would be provoked hardly less terrible than that which the loyal strength of the Republic put down. There can be no disturbance of reconstruction, no invasion of the rights it has created or the principles of government it has developed, without a contest leading to anarchy.

Shall the Rebel element be reinvested with power to mould and control the South according to its pleasure? Or shall the loyal forces to which the national Government has given shape and direction be watched, and if necessary aided, until their endurance be placed beyond doubt? These alternatives make up the issue which the people of the country must decide. It is a choice between order and revolution—between governments born of law and anarchy resulting from brute force; and the election of Grant or Seymour will indicate the national choice.

Equally clear is the line drawn between the parties on the subject of finance. Business interests suffer seriously from the absence of a sound and steady financial system; and this again, requires as an essential condition, intelligent and well-established confidence. A wise and just management of the debt is the first step on the road to confidence; and the relative claims of the Republican and Democratic parties rest upon their respective purposes and principles.

The Republican policy is to abate the burden of the debt by so steadfastly promoting the public credit that the substitution of a lower for a higher rate of interest shall be rendered feasible.

The Democratic policy is to lighten the load by paying the debt in a depreciated currency instead of gold.

It is a question, therefore, of good faith or repudiation—of national honor or national disgrace—of a confidence that will be felt in every department of trade, or a distrust that will paralyze industry and engulf trade in bankruptcy.

Andy Johnson—Democratic Ingratitude.

From the New York Herald.

Andrew Johnson has been treated very shabbily by the Democracy—a great deal worse than John Tyler or Fillmore or anybody else that we can remember. Whether true or not that from the moment he was sworn into the White House Mr. Johnson became a candidate for another term on the Democratic tack, it is certain that he has done more to keep the party in the field and to supply it with arms, ammunition, rations, and clothing that any ten or ten thousand men who were stranded with McClellan and Pendleton on the Chicago peace platform.—Since the beginning of his conflict with Congress in December, 1865, Mr. Johnson's policy, it is charged, has been directed to three results—first, the reconstruction and restoration of the Rebel States on the Johnson platform; second, the demoralization and reduction of a minority of the Republican party in the Northern States; and, thirdly, the employment of the Johnson States of the South as the balance of power with which to control the Democratic President-making Convention.

Mr. Johnson says he has been all this time simply fighting for the Constitution. It is enough to know, however, that since December, 1865, he has kept the Democratic party on its legs and made himself the recognized official embodiment of the Democratic principles, and that the party were thus placed under obligations to him, for which the Democratic nomination would have been the proper equivalent they could offer. Instead of this they pass him an empty vote of thanks ("fine words butter no parsnips") and they whistle him down the wind. He has thus learned at last the selfishness, greediness, impudence, hypocrisy, ingratitude and treachery of party politicians. But he is at last a free man. He can now take his own course. He is thrown out of the Presidential fight of 1868, and that of 1872 is too far off for any calculation of the present day. He is at liberty to brush away the hungry flies that have been buzzing their flatteries into his ears for some time past, and free to consider the policy of a quiet time during the remnant of his official term. He ought to have known from the first that the Democratic politicians wanted a Presidential candidate upon whom they look as their servant and not as their master.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.
